Worldwide Baha'i community celebrates Festival of Ridván between April 21st and May 2nd every year

Ridván – Commemorates the 12 days that Bahá'u'lláh stayed at the Garden by the Tigris River near Baghdád in 1863.

Bahá'u'lláh declared his mission publicly in this Garden outside of Baghdád. He named the garden "Ridván" (paradise), He proclaimed that He was a new messenger of God foretold in the religions of the past.

"Verily I say, this is the Day in which mankind can behold the Face, and hear the Voice, of the Promised One."
Tablets of Bahá'u'lláh
